

Sample page on which John Herschel Kelly kept records of grocery items that he sold on credit. It also shows how the children played with the journal over the years.