

Hazel Dell & The Old Williams Saling Cemeteries

Knox County, Missouri Salt River Township - Section 27

Information provided by Clara & Marilyn

Hazeldell Cemetery (some say it should be Hazel Dell but the sign was misspelled) is located about 6 miles west and 3 miles south of Novelty, MO It is not a real small cemetery and is right on a corner with a nice sign saying "Hazeldell Cemetery & Church Site 1888-1992. It is very well maintained. At one time there was a church there also.

The little cemetery I mentioned has no name that I know of so I call it "The Old WilliamSaling Cemetery" and is about 1 1/2 mile East of Hazeldell. The road cutting across is just a farm trail and crosses Saling creek. The cemetery is back in the field 2 or 3 blocks and up a steep bank and over a fence. At some time the hogs were turned loose and many stones were lost and damaged. Some of the local people put a fence around a few of the graves. Other than that, nothing is being done to protect the other graves from cattle and it is badly overgrown with brush and trees. We have chopped and dug around but can not find William Saling's stone (Great great Grandfather). Some time ago, Junior Wikinson of Novelty found the grave as he was making records of all the cemeteries in the area, so we know it is there.

(We did not find these stone but Junior Wilkinson did in 1966 and this must have been the spelling he found for Saling)

Just the last three stones were not found in 1997.

Following is a list of names we copied from stones in about 1988:

I also have a little more information taken from the above stones such as Dau of A W & AA Hodges if anyone needs it.

Hope this is of some help. Clara cempkey@juno.com
