of Friday says an immense funeral train followed to the grave the remains of the late James B. WEED, yesterday afternoon. The members of the Assembly were there in a body, with their officers in pursuence of a resolution of condolence adopted yesterday morning. The Typeographical Association also formed a large part of the procession. The Burgesses Corps of which the deceased was a member, was there in full uniform. Besides these the number of citizens who walked in procession was unusually large; exhibiting in a strong light the estimation in which the deceased was held in this community where he spent a large portion of a well spent life - and the sympathy which is universally felt, with the bereaved family.
