at Cohoes, named Samuel STILES, was fatally injured on the evening of the 20th ult by the reaction of a stick of timber he was sawing with a buzz saw. The Cataract states that he was about finishing his day's work, and had got his last stick nearly completed, when the opposite end caught on the teeth of the saw, and was thrown back with great velocity, striking Mr. S. in the abdomen with such force as to render him insensible. Mr. RHODES, who is employed in the same room with him, immediately ran to his assistance and upon being raised up and restored to consciousness he turned to Mr. R. and exclaimed, "Friend RHODES, I am a dead man!" He was taken to his residence where every effort was made to relieve him, but after lingering in great agony til Sunday eve, he expired. He leaves a wife and child to mourn his loss. "Verily in the midst of life we are in death."

Page 2:2 - DEATH OF HON. ABBOTT LAWRENCE - The death of the Hon. Abbott LAWRENCE occurred at Boston on Saturday morning. Mr. L. for many years occupied a most prominent position in Mass. & New England as a merchant, manufacturer, politician. Few men have succeeded better in any capacity. While as a businessman, his sagacity enabled him to rise from poverty to the position of an enormous wealth, his shrewdness and ability as a politician gave him a seat in Congress as long as he would consent to occupy it and afterwards clothed him with the responsibility & dignity of the position of Ambassador at the Court of St. James. Since the days of HANCOCK there has not occurred a more notable instance of eminent success. in the double pursuit of political distinction and wealth.
