Page 2:4 - On Saturday Robert A. HICKS, a lad 15 years of age, step-son of Mr. William YATES residing in Lodge Street came to his death in a singular and distressing manner being found suspended by the neck from the bannister or railing of the staircase leading from the hall to the second story between two and three in the afternoon. It is supposed he had been experimenting upon the process of hanging induced perhaps by the recent execution of Leddings,, and just when no one happened to be in the hall placed himself in a situation beyond his own power of relief and when discovered he was quite dead. This is the most rational supposition, as no cause can be assigned for self-destruction and he had enjoyed the holidays with the buoyancy of spirits natural to his age (from the Albany Argus)
