

NOVEMBER 20, 1861 OONTINUED FROM PAGE 306

It had slipped from its mother's lap in that position; she was too drunk to feel or hear it - and thus it had drowned. Coroner WITBECK held an inquest in the case and the verdict was rendered in accordance with the facts.

Page 2:5 - A laborer named DILLEY was killed in a quarrel at the Nail Factory Saturday afternoon. He and his opponent, one RYAN, were clinched, and fell heavily against the end of a house, in the fall, dislocating one of the vertebra of the neck, causing almost instant death. RYAN, Sunday morning gave himself up to an officer and is now in custody.

Page 2:6 - DEATH OF AN AGED PAUPER - An old man named COOPER died at the County House Friday night. He had passed his 98th birthday. Mr. COOPER <sup>who</sup> was one of the earliest settlers of the county resided at Lansingburgh when Troy was settled, and well-remembered, he said, when there was only one little fish hut on the bank of the River at this point; most of the present side of the City being covered with willow growths, frog ponds and the like. The old man had no relatives or friends living, to his knowledge. He had outlived all with whom his early years were passed, his powers and his happiness. (from the Troy Times)

- MARRIED - In New York on the 2d inst. by Rev. G.A. PELLZ, Mr. Joseph P. WISWALL of this Village & Miss Josephine D. ROSS of the former place.

- DIED - In this Village on the 9th inst. Mrs. Jane A. SILLIMAN in the 40th year of her age.

- In this Village on the morning of the 18th inst., Harriet Elizabeth, infant daughter of George H. & Harriet E. LAWRENCE, age 12 or 18 months (blurred) The friends of the family are respectfully invited to attend the funeral from the residence this(Wed.) afternoon at 3 o'clock.

NOVEMBER 27, 1861

Page 2:3 - DEAD - Patrick LEONARD, who was injured on the occasion of the explosion at the Arsenal, died on Friday morning last. This is the third death resulting from the explosion. The other injured ones are recovering.

Page 2:4 - Capt. James WILSON was instantly killed at Albany Wednesday. His vessel lay at the dock unloading fire brick when the derrick broke and a portion of it fell on Capt. W. and his brains were dashed out.