CCGS has gone Paperless - well almost!

CCGS published the Trail Breakers on line last year and that was well received. That has been done again for this issue. This will save the society money with both the printing and mailing costs. If you are a member, you can see the finished product at www.ccgswa.org, look under Publications, then CCGS Trail Breakers, then Vol. 35. If you desire a hard copy, then you need to submit a request to:

Thurs, Sept 12, 1878; Vol. 4 – No. 3

Married - In this city, at the residence of N. F. Bolton, Sept. 10, 187b, by Rev. G. W. Day, William B. Keen, of Forest Grove, Oregon, and Miss Dolly A. S. Bolton of Vancouver, W. T. (5/4)

In this city, Sept. 9, 1878, by the Rev. A. S. Nicholson, Mr. Horace G. Daniels and Miss Mary E. Hague, both of this city. (5/4)

At the residence of the bride's parents, in Pekin, Cowlitz county, W. T., Sept. 2, 1878 by C. C. Bozarth, J. P. Mr. Wm. Bolen, of Clarke county, to Mrs. Elizabeth Bozarth. (5/4)

The popular purser of the steamer Vancouver, H. G. Daniels, was married Monday evening, and the boys were so .pleased to get him out of the way that they got out the string band and gave the worthy couple an elegant serenade. (5/1)

There's Nothing Like It.- The young folks in Oregon do think Vancouver is the nicest place in the world to get married in. The East Portland "Sunday Call" gives the last expedition as follows: "On Friday evening a trio, consisting of a woman about 30, a young miss about 15, and a man about 40 years of age, presented themselves at a livery stable and secured a team for the purpose of going to Vancouver in order that the girl and man might get married. They proceeded on their journey but were prevented from accomplishing their object by their failure to cross the river, owing to the ferry - boat being laid up for the night. However, nothing dismayed, they started again yesterday on the Vancouver and probably succeeded with the second pop." (5/2)

Relief Society - Last night in response to the call of Mayor Sohns there was a meeting held at the City hall by citizens, and an association formed, under the title of "The Emigrant and Settlers' Relief Society of Clarke County." The organization is organized as follows: President, L. Sohns, Vice President, S. W. Brown; Secretary, John O'Keane; Treasurer, D. Wa.; Executive Committee, the Rev. A. S. Nicholson chairman, John Jaggy, M. Wintler, Lindley Meeker, and Samuel C. Harris. At the close of the meeting was commenced the work of providing funds for the relief of the sufferers by forest fires and the necessary work will be continued. The object is most praiseworthy, and the society can do much good in this county.

Miss Ella Stoughton returned home from Steilacoom last week. (5/1)

Thanks to H. G. Daniels and his bride for wedding compliments. (5/1)

Harrison Hedrick left Vancouver last week for Astoria, at which place he will remain permanently. (5/1)

Prof. J. P. Feaster, the well known dancing master, last week cut one of his feet terribly with an ax. He may lose his foot. (5/1)

One of the chaps in Vancouver who understands book-keeping is the one who took "Tom Sawyer" out of the public library, and failed to return it. Bring it back. (5/1)

Thurs., September 19, 1878; Vol. 4 – No. 4

Married - At the Vancouver House, in this city, Sept. 17, 1878, by Rev. M. Judy, Mr. R. B. Smith and Miss Rosetta Miller. (5/5)

One hundred and fifty-six scholars are now in the public school. (5/1)

Dr. G. P. McColl has bought an interest in a drug store in Weston.

Jo. Burke has given us "another item for the paper" one of his wife's – it is a boy and weighs 12 pounds. (5/1)

Mayor Sohns is enlarging his dwelling by adding another story to the kitchen. (5/1)

Dr. Randolph Smith has occupied lawyer Spencer's former quarters for his office. (5/1)

The Brant dwelling has been improved with a new coat of shingles on the roof this week. (5/1)

Trant has taken his place in Wintler's store again. His wife is recovering from her long sickness. (5/1)

Arthur Baker, who has been down with a fever, is up again, and was down town for a short time on Sunday. (5/1)

Edward Goodnight of Battle Ground, started yesterday for Monmouth, Oregon, to attend the college at that place. (5/1)

Edgar Bateman was boss of the telegraph office for two or three days this week while Fred Bier was array looking for some of his bears that were lost. (5/1)

Last Saturday Blake's cow attempted to drink the Columbia dry, and perished in the attempt, being swelled up thereby bigger than the fabled toad. (5/1)

Several emigrant teams and families from California came into town yesterday. If lands to suit are found in this county they will stay with us; otherwise they will go up east of the mountains. (5/1)

The fire alarm Saturday evening, coming from the garrison, was caused by a burning chimney in Maj. Bayle's house. The boys took the engines out there at a lively rate, but happily their services were not called into demand. (5/2)

The fires last week destroyed a large amount of fencing in the Eaton settlement, but the farmers consider their losses in that line made good by the lands cleared up by the fire. The only serious 'loss in that settlement was that of a Mr. Graham, half of his wheat being destroyed. He thinks he is more than repaid by his land being cleared. (5/2)

BATHS - Thomlinson and Smith, the enterprising Vancouver barbers, have at considerable 'expense, fitted up a bathroom adjoining their shop. They have built a furnace, so as to give hot baths as well as cold, and have an arrangement for shower baths. Everything is fitted up in a neat and business like way, affording all the comfort that can be got out of a good bath. (5/2)

UNITED AT LAST

During the years 1843 and 1841, Wylie C. Smail, then a lad twenty years, and Miss Rosa S. Smith, a miss of thirteen, were in attendance upon school at Danville, Ky., she at a young ladies' seminary and he at a school for boys. They boarded in the same house and as the months passed on the acquaintance ripened into friendship, and from friendship expanded into love. In 1844, at the close of the regular school term, they parted, confidently expecting to meet again in the fall, she returning to her home at Nicholasville, he to his, near Harrodsburg.

But the fates had decreed it otherwise, and in the fall, instead of being sent back to Danville she was sent to a seminary further south, the consequences being that for thirty-four long years they saw nothing of each other, and for thirty years never heard the slightest word regarding the whereabouts or condition of either, or that one or the other was still in the land of the living. In April 1845, he was married, and in July of the same year, she was wedded to Dr. Mizner, a prominent physician of that locality. Although he at that time lived at Danville, but twenty miles from Nicholasville, her home, he had neither heard or seen anything of her, nor knew of her marriage. In 1849 he moved West, into the State of Missouri, and, his wife dying he married again; his second wife dying he married a third time, and about five years ago, in our beautiful Mount Muncie, he laid away his third wife. In 1874 Mr. Snail's sister came west upon a visit to him. She had accidentally met Mrs. Mizner at her home in Nicholasville, and had told her regarding her old sweetheart arriving here she acquainted her brother of the fact of her having met Mrs. Mizner. In October 1876, Dr. Mizner died, and some time after that Mr. Snail wrote to her. She replied, and a correspondence continued until April the present year, when she came west, ostensibly upon a visit to relatives, but in reality to see him. He met her at the Union depot, Kansas City, upon her arrival by the midnight train. They had exchanged photographs, which of course, was the probable reason of the ready and immediate recognition. After coming up to this city and remaining for a short time at the Planters' House, she made a sort visit to relatives at Trento, Mo., and returning to Leavenworth, Mr. Smail accompanied her to Kansas City, where on the 18th of June last, they were married. Mrs. Snail then proceeded to her home in Nicholasville to make preparations for taking up her permanent residence in Leavenworth. She will return in about three weeks. Mrs. Snail has lived all her life in Nicholasville and is loved and respected by her numberless friends for her many virtues and accomplishments. Mr. Snail is well known here, having lived in the city for the past thirteen years. -- Leavenworth (Yang) Times,

Born - At Fort Vancouver, September 23, 1878, to the wife of Lieut. Daniel Cornman, U.S.A., a son. (5/2)

The Addison family, in which occurred the birth of four children at Champoege the other day, were living at Love's mill at the time it was burned. He was running the mill at that time. (3/1)

M. C. Henslee of La Center last week moved in to Vancouver. (5/1)

Anton Young returned home from San Francisco yesterday. (5/1)

Hiram Cochran is in town looking after some of his property. (5/1)

Charlie Hague came back from the wars last week Thursday, tough and hearty. (5/1)

H. H. Gridley and wife returned yesterday from San Francisco, after several weeks vacation on the bay. (5/1)

Al. Lovelace has bought a farm in Oregon, on the Sandy, and the family will move over there next week. (5/1)

Jo. Burke has given up the idea of going to Pendleton, and has made arrangements to open business in East Portland. (5/1)

Charlie Troupe departed for Walla Walla last week, where he goes into business. There are many here in Vancouver who wish him success. (5/1)

RETURNED HOME - Mrs. M. J. Maxon, who went East of the mountains a short time since, returned on Thursday of last week with her mother, Mrs. Rachael Johns, who has since" gone to Lewis river to visit her daughters living there. (5/3)

~~~~~~~~~*

Thurs., October 3, 1878; Vol. 4 – No. 6

Johnny Crawford departed on Tuesday morning to attend the Bishop Scott Grammar School in Portland. (5/1)

R. C. White, the well known Portland dramatic artist, is about to take a ranch on Lewis river, and become a sturdy woodsman. (5/1)

Hon. J. W. Brazee, whose elegant residence was totally destroyed by an incendiary fire a few weeks ago, has removed with his family to Portland. (5/1)

Rev. G. W. Day and his family departed on Tuesday for Oregon City, where their home is for the future. They leave many friends in Vancouver. (5/1)

George Brant returned home from the upper country on Thursday last. His last exploit with a mule cost him several days' rest in the hospital in Walla Walla, delaying his return home. (5/1)

Mrs. H. L. Caples, of Battle Ground, has our thanks for a haunch of fresh venison, which furnishes a proof that the woods of Clarke county furnish as fine Game as can be found in America. The deer was killed by Douglas Caples, a lad only 15 years old. He is game too. (5/1)

Mr. H. D. Hunt and wife, of Wathena, Kansas, who have been visiting Vancouver for a week, started up the river to see the upper country this morning. He will locate somewhere in the Territory, perhaps in Vancouver, and the community would welcome the location of such men here. (5/1)

The Portland papers have been publishing as a remarkable thing that two men with a horse and wagon backed off from a bridge in East Portland, falling 26 feet, escaping without injury. The romance is all taken out of that story when it becomes known that Jo. Burke and Arthur Baker were in the wagon--that's not the manner in which those chaps are destined to leave this vale of tears. (5/1)

No wedding in Vancouver for two weeks. The rain has cooled off even the Oregon runaways. (5/1)

The officers chosen by the Vancouver choral society are as follows:

President - Rev. M. Judy; Vice-President - J. T. Gray; Secretary - C. C. Gridley; Treasurer - Miss Emma Steward; Musical Director - W. B. Patterson; Pianist - Miss Mollie Troup. An Executive Committee was also appointed. The society has already commenced its regular practice. (5/2)

Born - In Vancouver, September 30, 1878, to the wife of A. W. Gray, a son. (5/4)

Near Vancouver, September 24, to the wife of A. J. Sturgess, a son, (5/4)

In Vancouver, Sept. 29th, to the wife of Joseph H. Leybold, a son, (5/4)

Thursday, Oct 10, 1878; Vol. 4 - No. 7

George Weeden, proprietor of the New Columbia hotel in this city, was taken very seriously sick on Monday, and as yet shows little improvement. (5/1)

Many Vancouver people are going to the Oregon State Fair at Salem this week, among them George Tooley and his family, and Geo. W. Durgin and wife. (5/1)

A little son of G. W. Evans, while fishing on the dock one day last week, ran a fish-hook into one of his fingers, which broke off, requiring the services of the Post Surgeon for its extraction. (5/1)

Thanks are due to James Davidson, Jr., for Rhode Island papers received this week. (5/1)

Last Monday being the Jewish day of the atonement, the stores of Mrs. Weise and J. Kaiser were closed, according to custom. (5/1)

Born. Near Vancouver, Sept. 7, 1878, to the wife of George Secrist, twins, both girls. (5/4)

Near Vancouver, Sept. 28, 1878, to the wife of Albert Thornton, a daughter. (5/4)

Near Vancouver, Sept. 27th, 1878, to the wife of Charles Goddard, a son. (5/4)

Married - In Vancouver, Oct. 16, 1878, by S. D. Maxon, J. P., Andrew F. Bown and Miss Mary E. Heiser, both of Clackamas county, Oregon. (5/1)

Married - At Fort Walla Walla, W. T., Oct 10th, 1878, Lieut. Joseph Duncan, 21st Infantry, to Catherine A., eldest daughter of J. B. Keefer, Paymaster U. S. A. Lieut. Duncan is well and favorably known here, having been stationed at the garrison here the past four years, and his many friends here congratulate him on this occasion, and join in best wishes for his and his bride's future prosperity. The happy couple expect soon to take up their residence at Fort Klamath, Lieunt. Duncan's station. (5/3)

~~~~~~~~~*

Thurs., October 24, 1878; Vol. 4 – No. 9

On Monday, the 21st instant, James M. Delany was admitted to full citizenship by Judge Greene. (5/1)

George Weeden is slowly recovering from his recent severe illness, much reduced in flesh and vigor. (5/1)

Dr. W. H. Goddard is now confined to the house by his sickness most of the time, feeling better some days than on others, but experiencing no material improvement in health. (5/1)

Matthew Patton, one of the successful farmers of Washington county, Oregon, with his family came over to Vancouver a few days ago to visit his brother-in-law, Geo. Tooley. He returned on Monday. (5/1)

DESTITUTE EMIGRANTS -- A family of emigrants, the man quite old, originally from Nebraska but recently from Oregon, brought up in this place last week. But for well bestowed charity they would be suffering for the necessities of life. Our citizens do not often have to relieve such cases, but when necessary it is done as it should be. (5/2)

SALE OF THE STILES FARM -- Mr. David Shepherd of Union Ridge, a few days since purchased the well-known Stiles farm at Washougal, comprising 819 acres, the purchase price being $15,000. The purchase includes 64 cows, 20 head of young cattle, 9 horses, farming implements, the dairy and cheese factory. Mr. Shepherd was formerly an extensive farmer in the county of Perthshire, Scotland, near Dundee. Three years ago he left the farm where his ancestor had lived for one hundred and fifty years, and with his good wife and family of ten children came direct to Portland. Shortly after his arrival he rented the Quigley farm at Union Ridge, going into the dairy business, which he has conducted successfully for two years. Mr. Shepherd will take possession of the Stiles farm on the 1st of November, and will increase his dairy business largely. At the Union Ridge farm he has been producing 250 pounds of butter per week, which amount will be more than doubled on the new farm. This farm has always been considered the best in Clarke county by many persons. It was opened by Hon. C. C. Stiles over 20 years ago. About four years ago he died, and his wife, Rebecca M. Stiles, assisted by her son C. T. Stiles, in four years, time cleared the farm of a debt of $7,000, which shows its superiority as a dairy farm. (5/2)

U. S. District Court:

The District Court, 2d Judicial District, holding terms at Vancouver for the counties of Clarke, Skamania and Klickitat, met on Monday, the 21st day of Oct, 1878; present, his honor Roger S. Greene, presiding; J. B. Allen, U. S. Attorney for Wash. Ter.; Charles Hopkins, U. S. Marshal; J. H. Fletcher, Sheriff of Clarke county; Aug. Schuster, Sheriff of Klickitat county, and R. G. O'Brien, Clerk, per G. T. Mc Connell, Deputy. J. H. Fletcher was appointed crier. James Crawford, Jr., Aug. Schuster, J. O. On Tuesday A. W. Engberg, a native of Sweeden, was admitted a citizen of the United States. Gustave Brune and Wm. M. Brune, natives of Prussia, were also admitted. (5/3)
Dame rumor says there is a wedding coming, off soon in Vancouver. (5/1)
By reference to the marriage notice in another column. it will be seen that a politician of Salem notoriety has caved in, been captured, and to be properly bonded came over to Vancouver, where the marriage ceremony in its greatest perfection thrives early and often for the benefit of the timid in Oregon. (5-/2)

Married - In Vancouver, Oct. 18, 1878, at the office of H. H. Gridley, J. P., Mr. Frank Drucks and Barbara Delgar, all of Clarke county, W. T.
In the Vancouver House, Vancouver, Oct. 12, 1878, by H. H. Gridley, J. P., Mr. Bartlette Cave and Mary Hepburn, both of Marion county, Oregon.
In Vancouver, Oct. 21, 1878, by S. D. Maxon, J. P., J. J. Domes and Miss Rose Pripp, both of Multnomah county, Oregon.

At the residence of Wm. Dillon, Oct. 23, 1878, by the Rev. A. S. Nicholson, Mr. George A. Nerton and Miss Mary Caples. (5/5)

Born - In Vancouver, Oct 22, 1878, to the wife of A. J. Laws, a son (5/5)

The most remarkable birth ever known occurred near Salesville, Ohio, recently. Mrs. Mc Cormic gave birth to five healthy children, four of whom were boys and one girl. The medical works gave but few instances of such wonderful births, and when they do occur children have scarcely been known to live. In this case the mother and children are in common language on such occasions, "doing well." (8/2)

Geo. Weeden is laid up this week with a bad foot. (5/1)

Phil Thornton is starting a wood yard in Vancouver. (5/1)

Mrs. J. P. Biles returned last week from her visit to Leavenworth. (5/1)

Eugene White returned home on the Great Republic from San Francisco last week Friday. (5/1)

Edwin Sparks, the newly elected assessor of Clarke county, will soon move into town. (5/1)

It is rumored that Jack Bean will soon remove from the Lacamas to Vancouver, where he is going into business. (5/1)

The sick children in the family of Mrs. A. C. Russell are now all recovering. One child is probably crippled for life by its sickness,

B.F. Eddings is having a hard time with his old enemy, the rheumatism, being confined to his room, and suffering much pain. (5/1)

Forty Years ago last Sunday, November 24, Vicar General F. N. Blanchet and Rev. Modeste Demers, arrived from Canada at Fort Vancouver to found a Catholic mission in Oregon. (5/1)

We learned last week that Mr. John Proebstel, one of the oldest settlers of the county, had been dangerously sick, but is now recovering. This county can hardly spare the old man for a time yet. (5/1)

John Vogel, who lives on Bear Prairie in Clarke county, raised an immense crop of Garnet Chili potatoes this season, Among them were a large number that weighed five pounds each and his largest specimen weighed seven pounds, (5/1)

Mr. John T. Riordan arrived home from Idaho City last week Thursday, bringing with him Ella and Emma Bright, a pair of fatherless twins, who will attend school in Portland. Mr. Riordan has been engaged in mining all summer, as usual, but will spend the winter among his friends in Vancouver. (5/1)

CARD OF THANKS -- I hereby return many thanks to those persons who have so kindly assisted me in my late afflictions. Mrs. A. C. Russell (5/2)

Thurs., December 5 1878; Vol. 4 – No. 15

Wm. Switzler has sold out up at Pendleton.

McConnell returned for the Sound on Saturday last.

E. F. Eddings is now slowly on the gain, but it may be some time, before he gets out again. (5/1)

J.P. Feaster has recovered from his cut foot sufficiently to open a dancing school in East Portland.

Geo. A Moody was sentenced to the Oregon penitentiary of one year for stealing those rifles in Portland.

John McBean, the interpreter, lost an envelope on the street last Thursday night, containing $80 in bills.

J.B. Fithian, formerly editor of the Blade, Topeka, Kansas, was in Vancouver last Thursday, and made us a pleasant call.

Gay Hayden, Sr., and John O'Keane, have been spending a good portion of the week in Portland, summoned as witnesses in the U.S. Court.

Geo. W. Bedbury, an old Wisconsin acquaintance, gave us a call Monday. He has been at work on the finishing of Gen. Howard's new house. (5/1)

James Reuben, the Nez Perce interpreter, who was in Vancouver all last winter, has gone to Indian Territory, to fill his appointment as teacher among the Nez Perce Indians. And now comes J.A. Dupuis, who says he put in that gravel cross-walk on Fourth Street at his personal expense, and he don't want a sleepy City Council to get the credit of it. "Nud ced."

Capt. P.E. Ferchen and his wife stopped in Vancouver a day last week, visiting friends between trips. The Captain is busily employed this winter in piloting grain ships up and down the Columbia.

H.W. Cushing, that fine-haired printer from the Standard office in Portland, who appeared to so much advantage at the Printers' picnic in Vancouver last summer, has just been elected Chief Engineer of the Portland Fire Department. Served him right.

TAX PAYING. The county treasurer, F.W. Bier, informs us that taxes have been more promptly paid this year than usual, and that the number of delinquents is small compared with last year.

THE FIRE ALARM. Sunday morning was occasioned by a chimney burning out in Kaiser's building next to Stegert's market. It went out without starting a conflagration, much to the relief of everyone.

FOOT MASHED.--Since Monday Tom Padden is not so "handy with his fut" as he was coming home from Portland on the new steamer a piece of timber fell upon it, almost crushing it, and he is now partly disabled. (5/1)

LIBRARY REMOVED.--The Vancouver Library Association has removed its books from this office to the Free Reading Room, where they can be obtained on the same terms as heretofore. S. D. Maxon will be librarian. (5/1)

FINE PEARS. On the strength of the extra fine quality a of a basket of Winter Nellis pears left us by C.H. Whitney this week, we may be excused for publicly mentioning the fact. They furnish additional proof that Vancouver can grow the finest fruit in the world.

GOBBLED. Martin Burke has had for a long time a pair of very nice wild ducks, which he had succeeded in domesticating perfectly. About Thanksgiving Day one of these much prized ducks was stolen, and with it a fine fat turkey. Again we are led to remark that the world is made up of ruthless sinners.

COLLEGE MEDALS. The Right Reverend Blanchet, Bishop of the Nesqually, and Father Schram, intend giving silver medals to the students of Holy Angel's College, at the close of the current term. One medal for Christian Doctrine, (the examination will embrace fifteen pages of legal cap on the "Life of our Lord,") one for mathematics, and one for language.

CHANGE OF FIRM. -- A. J. Bean has bought out Thos. Nye's interest in the market business, and will be associated with Wm. Conway under the firm name of A. J. Bean and Co. They will do business at the old stand. We shall miss Tom's fat visage in the shop, for he was a standing advertisement of the fat in his meats. It will take a year to get Jack Bean up to the standard held by his predecessors.

BATTLE GROUND. Born at Battle Ground, Nov. 27, to the wife of Jas Kelly, a son. Born. Nov 21st, to the wife of Patrick O'Mearea, a daughter. The flouring mill being built by J.C. Palmer is so nearly finished that it will be ready to run by the end of December. The farmers in the burnt district are making a great many rails to rebuild the fences destroyed by the forest fire of the last summer. J.G.

NARROW ESCAPE FROM DROWNING.--Shortly after the Vancouver landed Saturday night, the mate, A. W. Gray, heard a splashing between the boat and the dock. Thinking that some one was over-board, notwithstanding the darkness and consequent danger, he jumped into the river, just in time to grab a boy who had fallen from the gang plank, whom he succeeded in getting out. It was Frank Laws, son of A. J. Laws. This is the ninth person who has been rescued by A. W. Gray from drowning, and he deserves a gold medal of honor for his bravery and success in such emergencies.

[I.O.O.F. Grand Lodge in Olympia elected Deputy Grand Master, G.T. McConnell, of Vancouver, others around the state listed as officers.]

Military Items.

General Howard's new house is nearly ready for occupation.

M.J.H. Bachelder has been appointed chief clerk in the Chief Quartermaster's office, vice Dawson, resigned.

Lieut. E.S. Farrow, 21st Infantry, who has been on court-martial duty here, left yesterday for his station, Fort Townsend.

Gen. R.C. Buchanan, U.S.A., who recently died in Washington, will be remembered by some of our older citizens as commander of the garrison here before the war.

Lieut. J.C. Shofner, 21st Infantry, returned to the post on Monday with his detachment, after having conducted the women and children of the part of Indians arrested by Capt. Boyle back to their reservation.

Lieut. Robt. Craig, of the Signal Corps, was here on Sunday. Lieut. Craig is to take charge of the construction of a Government telegraph line for Walla Walla to Lewiston and Fort Lapwai. Work on the line is to be commenced at once.

Mr. J.R. Dawson, who retired from the position of chief clerk of the Quartermaster's department on the 1st inst., was yesterday presented with an elegant copy of "Dore's Gallery," by the officers at the headquarters and the civilian clerks of the department. Gen Howard made the presentation, with a few appropriate remarks, to which Mr. Dawson, who was taken quite by surprise at the unexpected gift, briefly responded. Mr. Dawson has been connected with the Quartermaster's department for the past ten years, and has made hosts of friends during that period.

Upon the demand of Capt. David Perry, 1st Cavalry, a court of inquiry is constituted to assemble at Portland, Oregon, at 10 A.M. December 16th, or a soon thereafter as contained in the reports of several officers of the army, and which Captain Perry believes to reflect upon his conduct during the Nez Perce Indian campaign of 1877. The court will also investigate and inquire of so much of Captain Perry's conduct, generally, during the said campaign as has not been already made the subject of inquiry. The court will report the facts, and give its opinion on the merits of the whole case. Detain for the court: Lieut. Col. Alex Chambers, 21st Infantry; Major David P. Hancock, 2d Infantry; Major George B. Dandy, Quartermaster, U.S.A.; Captain Joseph S. Conrad, 2d Infantry, Recorder.

A BRAVE WOMAN. -- The wife of Jehu Switzler, well known in Vancouver, recently proved that she was possessed of pluck and determination. The story is told as follows: "As soon as the military left Umatilla reservation, some days ago, 125 Indians also left the reservation and took up camp of Long island, ten miles below Umatilla. On the 21st, during the absence of Mr. Switzler, who lives in Washington Territory, opposite Umatilla, an Indian in war paint and armed came to this house and demanded provisions. Mrs. Switzler refused to give him the quantity desired. He grew insolent, went to the stable, saddled one of Switzler's best horses and attempted to ride off. Mrs. S. leveled a needle gun and he dismounted and decamped."

A STAUNCH AND HANDSOME BOAT. . . . "Kamm's new boat the Lurline, recently built of the flat just above Wiedler's saw mill, made her first trip Monday morning . . . The machinery of the boat, which is all new and of the best manufacture, was elected personally by Mr. Kamm, who is a practical engineer, while on his recent visit to the east. . . Capt. James T. Gray, who for some years has had charge of the Vancouver, takes command of the new boat, and Mr. Horace G. Daniels, the justly popular river clerk will look after her business interest, and do the social honors."

CARD OF THANKS.--My thanks are hereby tendered to Capt. Baily of the steamer Gazelle, for kindness rendered in securing and returning to me a dog, upon which I place much value for the sake of its former owner as well as the worth of the animal. Mrs. Mary Lovelace. (5/3)

NOTICE TO HUNTERS. Notwithstanding the fact that we have posted notices in accordance with the law on the subject, we are much annoyed by soldiers and others, hunting on our premises without permission, therefore we give warning that from this date we shall prosecute without reserve, according to law, every person found hunting on our premises. No more foolishness in this business now. I.M. Hidden, Andrew Proebstel, John W. Bluerock, J.H. Fletcher. Vancouver, Dec. 5, 1878.

Persons who have instructions to make holiday present should not fail to call and examine the stock at T.C. Stevens' Vancouver jewelry store. (5/4)

DIED. On the north fork of Lewis River, Nov. 24, 1878, Mrs. Krouse, aged 37 years. She left a husband and four small children, the youngest a babe two weeks old, to mourn her loss – but off in the midst of her usefulness and in the prime of life, her death has cast a gloom over the entire community where she had lived. The funeral service were held of the 26th, Rev. D.W. Gardner officiating.

RETURNING EMIGRANTS. – The Inland Empire gives the following item and very sensible conclusions: "On Tuesday last we noticed five wagon loads of immigrants, on their way back from the Palouse to the Willamette. They had gone there with barely means enough to reach the Mecca of wheat-growers. On learning that the Winters were sever and lumber scare, they concluded to return to the warmer climate. It is the old story of "Go further fare worse." The amount of money they spent in going hence to Palouse and back, would have built them comfortable houses here or in Klickitat valley. Counting the difference of freight on all they consume and all they produce, we think it is no vague assertion to say that a man who raises thirty bushels of grain per acre in Tygh valley or Klickitat, is better off than the man who grows fifty bushels per acre in the Palouse.”

Finnish Pioneer in Vancouver

Vince Roman, Historical Research Specialist for the law firm of Stahancyk, Kent, Johnson and Hook has done extensive research on the Charles Brown House at 400 W. 11th Street. The following article concerns early Vancouver citizen Mary Josephine Tuomala. For more information on the Brown House visit www.charlesbrownhouse.com.

Charles Brown, infamous in Vancouver, Washington history for committing suicide after being involved in a banking scandal isn't the only colorful character to enrich the house that now bears his name. Other notable past residents of the Charles Brown House include Alonzo Cook, founder of Garden Grove, California; Sam Brown, early Vancouver politician, personal friend of President Abraham Lincoln and father of aforesaid Charles; and Alice Hubbard, early Vancouver public education pioneer. But, one woman who may not have impacted society in such a reflective manner as the others listed above nevertheless has an interesting story in her own right. From beginnings in Finland to a much-esteemed woman of strong moral character in America, Mary Josephine Tuomala holds her own on the list of important people to grace the Charles Brown House.

Mary Josephine was the only daughter of the owner of a stagecoach stop and inn located halfway between Helsinki and St. Petersburg. To keep the inn's dining facility stocked with meat her father traveled north during the winter each year to buy reindeer meat from the nomadic Lapland people who inhabit northern Finland. During one trip he noticed the daughter of the chief of a nomadic tribe and asked for her hand in marriage. Mary Josephine's grandfather (the chief) said that if Mr. Tuomala felt the same way the next trip he would consider giving his consent. The following winter he did. The chief kept his word and Mr. Tuomala and his wife returned to the stagecoach inn where they became very successful financially. After a few years of work, Mr. Tuomala was able to save enough money to book a trip on a vessel sailing to New York in 1881. He took with him his three sons and only daughter Mary Josephine. His wife refused to join them, as she was convinced that the business could not run without her, which it probably couldn't.

Once in the United States, Mary Josephine was very anxious to see the Pacific Ocean and asked her father if she could make the trip to Astoria. At the time, Astoria was fast becoming a destination for Scandinavian immigrants, especially Finns, due to the fishing economy and the landscape which reminded them so much of home. Mary Josephine's father gave her more than adequate funds to travel to the west coast and return to Chicago where he was staying with his sister. So, at the age of eighteen, Mary Josephine made her way to the Pacific Ocean. On the boat trip east on the Columbia River she stopped at Vancouver and telegraphed her father that she was staying there. Her father wired back telling her that when she was ready to return to Finland (since the rest of her family's trip in Chicago was coming to an end) he would gladly send her the money for the return trip. I'm not sure her father knew what her true intentions were, and most likely she did not either at the time. She did not take him up on his offer. Although her family was closely tied, Mary Josephine remained in Vancouver and never saw any of her relatives again.

She was lucky. Although she spoke no English, Mary Josephine met Mrs. Rebecca Brown, the wife of local banker Charles Brown, who hired her to look after her three daughters and who taught her English so well that Mary Josephine had only a slight accent and acquired excellent penmanship. However, it was while Mary Josephine was with the Brown family that she met her husband, Peter Olav Hilstrom. Peter had come from a very poor company-owned fishing village on the west coast of Sweden, and had laid railroad tracks across much of the United States and from his small earnings had purchased a little farm in Hockinson, WA. Besides farming, he supplied firewood to the Vancouver Barracks and prominent Vancouver families, one family being that of Charles Brown. One can only imagine the sparks that ignited between the two Scandinavian immigrants and how their courtship blossomed over a chance meeting involving delivery of firewood.

After their marriage The Hilstroms farmed for several years but education for their children was very limited and as soon as their children outgrew the one-room schoolhouse they moved to a house on 9th Street in Vancouver. Mr. Hilstrom briefly owned a furniture store/funeral parlor and later was the first game warden in the local area. One day when he was at Salmon Creek, a rural area of Vancouver, and preparing to go home, he accidentally put the car in reverse, backed into Salmon Creek, was trapped inside his vehicle and drowned.

Mary Josephine was then a widow with six children. Despite financial strain she very much wanted her children to obtain higher education. One daughter, Teresa (Tess) graduated from the University of Washington. While daughter Tess was at the University of Washington she and a man named William Bates carried an on-again-off-again friendship. When Tess returned to Vancouver she became principal of the Sarah School and soon after that she and William got engaged. William became a regular at Mary Josephine's famous Sunday suppers and on October 25, 1919 she asked William when he and Tess intended to marry. He said, "Tess won't give me a date". Mary Josephine then told William that he was not welcome at Sunday supper again until they were married. One week later, on November 1, 1919 they were married and Sunday supper attendance resumed without a hitch.

Years later in 1946 William Bates purchased the Charles Brown house with his law partner Milton Burnett and the house became the first decentralized office in the city of Vancouver. Mr. Bates purchased the house for sentimental reasons due to the fact that it was the first place in which his mother-in-law lived when she came to America. In a letter dated June 2, 2008, Mary Ellen Bates, granddaughter of Mary Josephine says "I know that Grandmother Hilstrom would have been very pleased that Father and Uncle Milton bought and practiced law in the Brown House. Grandmother had a strong will and determination; she loved my father as a son and was very fond of Uncle Milton. Mary Josephine was not a beauty but her inner strength coupled with her firm but gentle nature shone through and she was much admired and loved."

Mary died at the home of her daughter Tess in 1929 at the age of 66 and was survived by all six of her children. Up until her final illness she was an active member of Martha Washington Chapter, Order of Eastern Star and Bethany Shrine and White Shrine of Jerusalem. Although Mary didn't impact the community with political or financial clout, as did other past residents of the Brown House, she was still a well-respected member of society. At a young age she showed bravery, or as the Finns say, "sisu" by traveling to a foreign land, never returning to Finland. This fortitude and strength was an attribute she carried throughout her whole life. A true pioneer if I do say so myself.

Fargher Lake, Land of Tulips, Daffodils and Mint; Tales of Persons Wrestling Living from Raw Land are Related

"It was the building of good roads," said Ludwig Harand, proprietor of Fargher lake's general merchandise store, "that brought about the wonderful changes in this section. I started my business here 15 years ago and hauled my feed and store supplies from Heisson with a team of horses. I learned then what rough and muddy roads were.

"It is a 26-mile drive to Vancouver and the roads are paved all the way now. They bring in a lot of visitors and sightseers to this section, people who come especially to see the acres of tulips and daffodils that are grown on the old lake bottom.

There are attractions all along the way that are of interest to the nature lover or to the prospective buyer looking for a dairy or a farm for diversified farming.

"The Battle Ground co-operative cheese factory is an index to what the dairying industry is. Poultry and diversified farming are along the road. Two beautiful parks, Lucia Falls, and Ladize park, both on the Lewis river, attract many.

"A lot of people have settled here in the past two years - some with money and some broke. Those who came broke have done wonders, buying a tract of raw land covered with stumps and brush, building a shack and going to work. Some of them on WPA have worked late at night, clearing and getting a place to grow a garden. One can see many a good garden and a lot of land cleared by the fellow who just wouldn't stay broke or stop trying.

A farm hand, a lad of perhaps 18, was the only one home at the Ladd and Holden bulb farm.

"I can answer your questions," he said. "I have a steady job here. This is my second year. You see here our field of sixty-five acres, mostly in daffodils. There are some Japanese iris. Most of the bulbs go east. However, a lot of them are sold in the west to other daffodil farms. It is necessary to import bulbs at times.

"The lake covers a section approximating 640 acres." At least one-third is in mint. You see not far from here the Creig and Hartley distilling plant. They have 100 acres of mint. Fifty to 60 acres of the lake bottom are planted with onions for the market, both dry and sets. Adjoining is the Pete Bredall tulip farm, six acres of tulips, all in bloom. A beautiful sight. We are always glad to welcome visitors."

Sara to Hear From Jim Custard Tales Of Sioux Indians, Civil War Days, Early Clark County and an Alaska Trip

It was a half century ago they first met - J.B., John, George and Jim - and became pals. They cleared land, built roads, planted orchards and the prosperous community of Sara of today is due to the efforts of the four pals and others like them who came to build homes. In the passing years, one by one passed on, only Jim is left.

We parked our car at the Custard home a few days ago to visit him. A cheerful fire burned in the fireplace.

"Just in time for a story," I said.

"Yes," he said, "J.B. Knapp, John Hoff and George Page are gone, but I remain at the age of 82 and am still well and strong. I was born in Wabushaw, Minn., in a little log cabin which was my grandfather's home. I was the first white child born in the village. My grandfather was a missionary, who came to teach the Sioux Indians. He had been sent by no church, but had a love for the Indians and felt they were mistreated. Later on, he was employed by the government as what would be known today as a G-man and was sent to New Orleans where he worked in the department of the smuggling bureau.

"My father enlisted in the Civil war and served four years. During this time an Indian massacre broke out and the people in our community all left and moved 40 miles away - except my mother and her six children. The Sioux tribe did not worry her. She was not afraid because they loved my father and grandfather too well. We could all speak the Sioux language.

Many times they stopped at our home - we fed them and talked with them and no harm was done us.

"Later on, I became a court interpreter and it was my experience that if an Indian were guilty he would plead guilty and in all the Sioux language there was not what we would call a swear word. The worst thing you could call one was a tonka, meaning a dog. A horse was called a minnetonka. There are falls which bear this name."

"A half century ago I came here and met the boys. We worked together in building the roads and clearing the land. The Union cemetery was laid out and one by one the boys have been buried there. We are now adding a new tract of land. I am still on the board of directors and as usual we will meet some time this month for our annual clean-up day.

"Two years ago, I took a trip to Alaska to visit my son who is a civil engineer there. I had the time of my life. If I were a young man I would make Alaska my home. There is lots of hunting and fishing and I brought home some trophies of my trip - eagle claws, bear rugs, deer heads, miniature totem poles, walrus tusks and here are some garnets which are easily found in that country. Well, they told me not to try to climb mountains, but I did and took many a trip on the swift waters. In fact, I became a young man once more on that trip. Will I ever return? Next June, I leave home for the frozen north once more."

W.S. Shobert at Ridgefield and Hears Of Memories Recalled by a Sixtieth Wedding Anniversary There Last Week

It was May 8 sixty years ago that a horse and buggy stopped at C.C. Gridley's office on Sixth and Columbia streets, Vancouver. Mr. Gridley was both undertaker and justice of the peace, but a gentleman and a lady who called that day were to see Mr. Gridley as the latter.

Two witnesses were called and a simple wedding ceremony was held. The wedding tour was back to Ridgefield, their future home. The bridegroom was W.S. Shobert and the bride, Miss Jane Brinn, a native of Clark County.

A few days ago the writer sat with Mr. Shobert in their beautiful home.

"My father came here 85 years ago," said Mr. Shobert, "when I was a lad of four years. Yes, that makes me 89 years old. He came from Illinois with a large ox train. He took up 320 acres of land here known as the Shobert-Donahue claim.

"My first schooling was a log school house. Sometimes it was a public school and sometimes some teacher would come along and teach a private school. We did our trading in Portland. We had large a sail boat and would take blankets, cooking utensils, and tie the boat up whenever we wanted to eat and sleep. We brought back from three to six months' provisions.

"Game was plentiful and we never lacked for food. It was a long time before roads were built to Vancouver, but finally our land was cleared and roads built. The Pacific highway shows the changes made - and we old pioneers have a feeling of pride that we did our bit in making of things that the people of today enjoy.

"Sunday, May 8, was a day we shall never forge. A crowd of 40 gathered at our home to celebrate with my wife and me our sixtieth wedding anniversary. Some of the old neighbors that came in the past on a similar occasion were absent. They have answered the great roll call. We missed them, Mother and I.

"Well, they brought a great wedding cake. We had a feast and made merry, talked of the long ago, and especially of that eventful day when we drove to Vancouver. Yes, we lived life over. We were happy. We have eight living children in our family, and 11 grandchildren.

"Just one thing more. That's my violin. I used to play for most of the old dances held in our community long ago. I do not play any more, just content with taking it in my hands and think of bygone days."

Union High School at Mill Plain and Finds a Modern Educational Plant Near Site of Old Log Schoolhouse

In the old territorial days, Mill Plain school, a log building, was known as a progressive school. Children from far and near - those who lived on the Plain and those who live further away on the river - attended it. Gone are they today - at least most of them - but not the Mill Plain school.

Mill Plain Union high school stands not far from where old log school once stood. It is a modern building of nine rooms, with 151 pupils in attendance, 22 of whom will be graduated this year. Eight teachers are employed at the school.

"I have been superintendent," said W.M. Savage, "for the past nine years and have enjoyed the work and the splendid cooperation of the community. We carry on the Smith-Hughes agriculture work, Grant Gibson being our instructor. Our boys select some line of work such as growing of wheat, oats, alfalfa, raising of cows and hogs and they are required to keep a complete bank account, knowing exactly the loss of gain made during the year. They all visit the farmers and glean a great deal of knowledge from them in their work.

We visited the agriculture room where sheet metal, blacksmithing, woodwork and plumbing is done. The class was at work and when it comes to work in this line it is surprising what the class has accomplished. The gymnasium was likewise busy, the girls training for an exhibition to be given at Orchards. The chemistry room has excellent equipment and a class of enthusiastic pupils. In a large glass-enclosed case were many medals and silver cups won by this school in contests.

"We also have a real up to date brass band," said Mr. Savage. "There are from 18 to 20 students in our band and at times, 25."

The writer was presented with the Annual Union Booster, Volume 10, No. 11 for May 3, 1938. Queen Bess I was the May day queen for 1938.

In the annual, a history of Union high is given, dating back to the horse and buggy days when a large shed was built for the horses. In those days the pupils came on horseback to school. The sheds have disappeared, the horses being replaced by automobiles. Under the heading of school improvements, in the past few years we find five and one-half acres of land have been purchased, making ten acres in all. A shower house has been built, a shop and class room for Smith-Hughes agriculture, New chemistry department and many other improvements, totaling $8,258. Besides listed as improvements in the W.P.A. project which, with some money from the school board, amounts to $23,885 bring the total to $32,143. This included foundation, grading, painting and a modern fire escape.

Last Resting Places of the County's Old-timers Who Have Passed On and Recalls Their Parts in Progress Here

A few days ago we gathered a number of old-fashioned roses to scatter on the graves of some of the old pioneers who had crossed the bar in the past two years.

In Park Hill cemetery rests in peace a pioneer who at his passing had nearly reached the age of four score and ten. Long ago his father came west when he was but a lad of four. They settled on the Columbia not far from Vancouver. The last time we visited him he told of his boyhood days, of the old time boats that piled up and down the river, of the deer and bear in the woods, the Indians, and of the trappers who occasionally stopped. Best of all, he loved to tell of the school he taught that stood where the city hall now stands. M.R. Sparks and Mrs. May Haack, brother and sister, he remembered.

Then came his life on the farm, the planting of the orchard, a home for the children. How we all loved him in the Riverview Grange. Yes, admired and honored by all who knew him was Henry Lieser.

And now to another old pedagogue. Many a time he has taken us to the land of long ago to stroll with him through the tall trees, down some worn path to a little school house of logs, where his pupils, now grown old and gray, greeted him. Not only did he tend them in their youth, but in after life when troubles came they called on him, on their old friend and teacher, Walter W. Sparks.

In a beautiful country cemetery one has lately had laid away - one who helped lay out that cemetery years ago. For over 50 years he was a builder of roads, schools and churches. These were his ideals, his monument a beautiful home of flowers and trees, His neighbors loved him - George Page.

At Park Hill is another who will long be remembered, not only in Clark county, but all over the state for his untiring work in the grange. He was likewise a member of Riverview grange - C.A. Sperber.

In the old city cemetery, a mound of granite shows his name. Long, long ago his grandparents came here to dwell by the river. He was known as Smilin' Jim. Perhaps that's why the hungry went to him to be fed, the naked to be clothed. In him they found a friend. Dr. C.S. Irwin, William Bolton, Joe McGolrick and the writer visited his grave a few days ago in memory of beloved Jim Short.

In St. James Acres is a newly made grave of a grand old pioneer mother. Long ago she came to Vancouver. She too was known by her smile and her deeds. Many went to her in the time of trouble where they found a friend. Over four score was her age, when she fell asleep, leaving behind her children and children's children. On the grave we dropped an old-fashioned rose, like her. She was Mary E. Goldrick.

With George McKee and Hears How Three Brothers Came West in 1883 and Settled in the Wilds of Amboy Forests

"Just the right time for a visit," said George McKee as we met in Wood's furniture store recently. "Let's sit in Clyde's office. I pay Clyde many a visit just as I did his father whom I knew in the long ago. I suppose all of us who have reached the shady side of life would rather talk of the past just as the younger generation would rather talk of the future.

"My brothers, Jim and Archie, and I hitched up a team to a prairie schooner 55 years ago in 1883 and with my mother and our sister started for the west. We said good-byes to our Missouri friends and joined another schooner driven by W.F. Gerber, a man loved by all who knew him when he lived.

"It was a long journey, but in memory I enjoy the trip now. Over mountain roads, plains and valleys we finally made our way to Vancouver, our rainbow's end.

"It was haying time along the Columbia when we arrived. Ed Blurock at Blurock's landing wanted help. We worked there putting up hay and then went to Amboy.

"There were a number of boys there whose initials were A.M. and I think Burt Blaker is correct when he says that is where Amboy got it's name. We homesteaded land, mother bought a railroad "80" and then came the building of homes.

"We worked together. There were the trees to fell and the land to clear and break up, but soon we had crops growing. One of my brothers went to the first school in that section, a little log schoolhouse long since fallen in decay.

"Our nearest postoffice was La Center. I carried the mail from there for 21 months, but was not paid by the government. The neighbors were to pay me one dollar a trip, but money was scarce and my entire receipts for the 21 months were 10 dollars. That was raised at a dance the neighbors gave, the profits to go to me.

"I shall never forget one Christmas eve when I started from La Center, a distance of 16 miles, on foot. In Canyon Creek I fell off a log, but managed to keep the mail sack on the log and dry. What a rush there was for that Christmas mail when I got home.

"Yes, there were three of us brothers who came west. Jim passed away a little over a year ago, Archie died a week ago on Memorial day." (George McKee died Nov. 5, 1938, five months after this interview.)

Mrs. Anna Knight, Only Survivor of The Messenger Family, to Hear Tales Of How Her Parents Came West in 1852

It was June 16, 1865, seventy-three years ago, that the first person was laid to rest in the Brush Prairie cemetery. She was a little girl, 2 years old. In the family plot a tall old-fashioned marble monument on which is carved her name, date of birth and death, and the family name, Messenger, marks the spot. Her father, mother and other members of the family have likewise found a resting place with her but one of the family remains.

It was in the home of Anna Messenger Knight at Sixteenth and Reserve streets the story was told.

"There were six in our family," said Mrs. Knight, "and I alone, remain. In 1852, the day after father and mother were married in Iowa, they started for the golden west on their honeymoon trip. At last they pitched their tent on Sauvies Island, their journey's end. Mother taught school there for one year and then they moved to Salmon Creek, took up land and built a log house. In that house, I was born.

"My first school was in a log schoolhouse nearby. Later, I attended the old Methodist Seminary in Vancouver. For a time my parents had a hotel at the foot of Main street in Vancouver, which was not far from the old witness tree. I well remember when we lived in the old blockhouse and kept mess for the officers. During the Indian trouble, my mother was in the Red House hospital, in the barracks where one of my brothers was born.

"Our next move was to Brush Prairie where we lived for a long time. It was here I married. Father farmed and was known as a circuit rider. Far into the hills and woods he wended his way on foot or horseback to visit the settlers and preach whenever he could find a place. I forgot to mention that my parents came west in what was known as the Goddard train. Many of Clark county's old pioneers came west at that time. The Whipple and Marshes I remember well as my schoolmates. The old time merchants, doctors and friends I knew in the long ago have had their ranks thinned. As I look in that old fashioned Hudson's Bay mirror on the wall I seem to see their faces. Well, I am glad I lived in the long ago and hope the younger generation will fare as well as we who have tried to make the world a better place for them to live."

Bergerhoff Farm and Is Told that Goats One Of Cleanest Animals Known; Big Demand Found for Milk; Small Pasture Area Ample

Clark county has a new industry in the dairy line.

A few days ago we visited the farm to see some of the Capra hircus family commonly known as goats.

"You will have to visit with me," said Mrs. E.H. Bergerhoff, "my husband is working away to pay the carpenter who is working on our house. Mr. Bergerhoff is a disabled war veteran. He drew his bonus and we decided to buy a home, so we purchased a little more than an acre of land here at 44th and Washington street. The small house that was here we are now enlarging.

"I have always been interested in stock, especially goats, so a year and a half ago we got three purebred does of the Nubian strain, sometimes known as the Jerseys of the goat family."

"We also secured three purebred Toggenbergs. At the present time we have 15 on our hands, all pedigreed. We have sold some. We buy a prepared food, but we grow our own hay. Each goat has a pan where its food is placed, and they will eat from their own pan only. If one does not eat all its food the others will not molest it.

"The goat is one of the cleanest animals known. No goat inspectors are necessary as they are not subject to the diseases that cows contract. We specialize in the heavy milk strain. We have some that give five quarts of milk per day. Last year we took most of our herd to the Salem Gresham and International livestock show fairs and they took ribbons at each fair. This year we shall show them again. We shall specialize in the Angewune Nubian because it is a heavy milker and because of its beautiful color, running from white and black to spotted brown and yellow.

"We purchased a fine registered buck from a Nebraska raiser last week, and another from an Oklahoma raiser.

"As to the sale of milk, there is a great demand for it. We sell what we can spare after feeding the young goats. We are often asked how many goats can be kept in place of one cow. We find that six can be fed and pastured in the place of just one cow. Hence people with small tracts are finding it profitable to raise goats."

On a winding road leading to the west, on the old Pacific highway, not far from Vancouver, one finds a recently built tabernacle sheltered in the firs, a dream come true for Mr. and Mrs. L.R. Kinard. It is made of logs. There are no windows of many-colored glass and no great pipe organ. The floor is of old mother earth.

"We have 14 acres here," said Mrs. Kinard. "We raise chickens and turkeys. My husband was pastor of negro churches in Portland and elsewhere. But we always wanted a home in a spot like this; a spot where all would be welcome to come and hold services and to enjoy picnics. We felt poor children and their parents deserved such a spot. And here it is.

"My husband and I felled the trees; I used the saw. And when all was ready a number of WPA men came and made the roof.

"Mr. Kinard is attending the Townsend convention in Los Angeles and will return in two or three weeks.

"We don't forget that our little home here in the firs is the home for all and that our tabernacle is open to any meetings that will make society happier and better."

Farms Near City and Finds Peruvian One Cavies (They're Pets); and Also Sow Said to Be World Maternity Champion

"Take a drive to Forty-ninth and Washington street and you can get a story on world record pig production," said one of the Columbian's old-time subscribers recently. So we drove to the home of W.J. Wright and found Myrtle, a pure bred Chester White sow in her pen enjoying her evening meal.

"She is five years old," Mr. Wright explained. "I purchased her at the International Livestock show. Her first family consisted of 16 - that was the smallest; the largest was 23. One rare thing is that she has never laid on or killed one of her pigs. She can care for 10 at a time; the rest we bring up on a bottle. We take prune boxes with open slats on the side, fill a pop bottle with milk, put a nipple on the top and insert the bottle between the slats. Then we fill the boxes with little pigs. Soon we use a trough and pretty soon we have full grown porkers.

"One year Myrtle had three litters, one of the 20, then 21 and finally 23, making a total of 64 pigs in one year. That breaks the record established when an English sow had 55 pigs in a single year."

Many stop at the home of Mrs. LaVelle Connell Putzman at the Leiner frog farm on the old Pacific highway to see what they have never before seen; Peruvian cavies of which Mrs. Putzman is breeder and exhibitor.

South America is the home of the cavia, of which there are many kinds. Some live in the ground, some on top of the ground, and some use trees. Those of Peru are the most beautiful. They are of all colors - red, white, blue, cream and black. They make great pets.

"The sire, an undefeated red, was purchased in England," said Mrs. Putzman. "I have taken all of my stock to the Salem, Gresham and International Livestock shows and won the best prizes. At one time I had 50 cavies, but at the present time I have only 20. They are fed hay, grain and especially like vegetables.

It would be hard to describe to you readers just what a cavia looks like. It would be better to call at the Leiner frog farm and see for yourself these queer animals.

Now we see the rabbits, of which there are 200 New Zealand Whites. Many prizes has Mrs. Putzman won with these rabbits, including a silver cup given by Aaron Frank, another by Sperry mills and numerous other cups, trophies and ribbons taken at fairs and exhibitions.

"I take orders for rabbit pelts to be used for fur coats," said Mrs. Putzman. "Here you see a number of them tanned and ready for use. They are dyed any color desired. Here is a circular showing the trade names for rabbit pelts of which there are 44, such as Arctic Seal, Minkony, Electric Beaver, Baltic, Black Fox, etc.

"The rabbit pelt is tough and makes excellent coats. The raising of rabbits requires, above all else, the best of pedigreed stock. Also necessary are proper feed and cleanliness. I have a hired man who devotes all his time to keeping the pens of the rabbits and cavies clean and to feeding them the right kinds of food at the proper time.

"I have calls from far and near for rabbits and cavies, and I supply a large trade. We welcome visitors and one Sunday afternoon 300 came to see our stock."

With 'High Binders' Who Recall Days
When Fourth of July Was Celebrated
With Earnest Patriotism and Oratory

A group of old timers had gathered after the luncheon hour. The topic of discussion was the celebration of the Fourth of July today and a half century ago. Few are left of the old gang, some of whom were known as the "High Binders," whose favorite gossiping place was Dode Carter's cigar store. In winter they sat around the old stove; in the summer on a long bench outside where they could see the strangers who came to town and the farmers as they drove by.

It was argued by the little group that met a few days ago that the Fourth of July "hain't what it used to be." Said Dode Carter, "In the old days the Declaration of Independence was always read; not a word was missed. The crowd sang patriotic songs and the band played. The orator of the day talked loud and long. The fire fighters dressed in their bright uniforms and the old fire engine made quick time in showing how battles were won."

A question arose as to when the old fire engine first made its way to Vancouver. The old records at the fire station failed to tell. A picture of a few of the members of the old Volunteer Fire Department No. 1 were found, but not one of these men is left to tell the story. The old engine, once the pride of Vancouver, is now carefully housed in the city sheds. It tells the story for it was No. 1 of that particular make, and found its way over many miles of water to Vancouver in 1861. It was shown at all the Fourth of July celebrations long ago, and once in one of Portland's great parades.

"The first recollection I have of a Fourth of July celebration," said Sylvester Goodnight, an old time bank clerk of this city, dates back 66 years to a celebration held in the Battle Ground school on Woodin creek. It was a celebration I never shall forget. S.W. (or S.V.? - illegible) Brown, receiver of the United States land office was the speaker of the day. He had been appointed to his office by President Lincoln. As I remember it, there was a very large crowd. For miles they came through the woods, for all was forest then.

A lemonade stand had been built, and firecrackers were also sold there. The old fife and drum corps furnished the music, but one grand old time that they did not play was "Marching Through Georgia." That was because this was not long after the war, and there were a number of southerners who had settled in this district and who were present at this celebration, so care was taken to keep everything harmonious.

I was pleased when I read of the great change that took place when the boys in blue and the boys in gray met at Gettysburg last week. They sang together the songs of long ago, and the stars and stripes and the stars and bars floated together in the breeze of old Gettysburg.

Ridgefield and Finds Formerly Rare South American Animals Being Raised So Milady May Wear Handsome Fur Coat

Ten years or more ago when a gentleman who was particular wanted to have the best quality felt hat and was willing to pay the price, he was shown one of nutria felt. But not so today. Some time ago all South American countries, whence comes the coypu which supplies nutria felt, forbade the exportation of the coypu fur.

To learn more of these animals we drove to the home of L.R. Turck, route 2, Ridgefield. Mr. Turck has been very successful at raising coypus and at the present time has over 30 of them. His stock has been well bred, and a grown animal weighs from 12 to 30 pounds.

"Water for them to swim in is necessary," said Mrs. Turck. "They are very clean and as soon as the young is born the mother takes it for a swim. They are strictly vegetarian, carrots being their favorite food. We feed our animals anything in the vegetable line, and once a day a little rolled barley. Now I shall let Keith, our 12-year-old son, tell you more about the coypu."

"They are never cross if properly handled," said Keith, "and the mother is the only animal known whose breasts are on her back. At times the mother can be seen swimming with her family on her back enjoying a meal. They have a bit of the porcupine nature. Their long hair, although it is not as sharp like the quills of the porcupine, is a protector of their beautiful fur which resembles that of the beaver. In fact these animals are sometimes called the South American beaver.

"Their hind feet are webbed and the tail has no hair. But they do not build dams. The coarse hair is plucked from the pelt and then it is ready to be made into fur coats that sell at anywhere from $300 to $700.

"After South American countries stopped the export of the coypu they were sold in pairs to different European countries. Then came the breeding of better and larger stock. The first ones that came to this country were brought to the state of New York and then to California where we got our stock.

"Our bucks weigh 30 pounds. They produce five times in two years and there are from 2 to 8 in each litter. They have no disease. This section is an ideal spot for raising them. That's about all I know about them. I should say they eat about as much as the larger breeds of rabbits."

On returning home we consulted an encyclopedia and found the lad was correct in all he had said. and as Clark county is so well adapted to the growing of these animals that take so little care, coypu raising may some day be a great industry here.

Mrs. Mary Patton, Whose Home on the Evergreen Highway Has a Commanding View of Portland and the Columbia River

"It was in April, 1893 when I was four years of age," said Mrs. Mary Patton, whose home is on the Evergreen highway near the Lieser home, "that my parents left the state of Iowa for the golden west. In September we reached our destination - Baker, Idaho. Now this all happened 75 years ago, and you can imagine what Idaho was then and just what our family had to contend with. Father and Mother were born in Scotland and the Scottish traits were to build a home and strive for success.

"My first school was at a neighbor's home. Here is a book of Tennyson's poems awarded to me." On the leaf was written, "Presented to Mary Finlayson for excellence in reading, February 7, 1873."

"My father was a cattle man," continued Mrs. Patton, "and I learned the range. I always selected the horse that could go. In fact, if they got rough I stayed in the saddle.

"I came to Portland and sold real estate in 1892. Then in 1909 Mr. Patton and I got tired of living behind four walls and a roof above and bought our home on the river. As you look out the window, you can see the airport across the Columbia. And there is the view of Mt. Hood, the lights at night in Portland and on the Interstate bridge. These things just tend to help one pass away the hours in enjoying the beauties that God and man have made. Last year Mr. Patton passed on at the age of 82.

"I can recollect some of the things on our journey west - the crossing of the Missouri on a boat with our cattle and wagons, the mountains, valleys, and plains. These recollections just make me happy in my home here on the Columbia. Next January I shall have reached the four-score mark in life.

"Now let's look at the garden. I spaded it up and planted it, but today is hot and things are a bit wilted."

"Nevertheless, her garden of tomatoes, corn, and many other things was wonderful and perhaps more wonderful because of being grown by a grand old pioneer, nearing the four-score mark in life.

Mrs. John Hastings to Hear How Her Sister Conceived Father's Day Idea In Spokane to Honor Own Parent

This is a story for the fathers, especially for those whose hair is tinged with silver and who see not far in the distance the end of life's long trail - for those whose children are scattered and who see them only occasionally. One day word is heard from them and that is on Father's day. How welcome the postman is. A bit childish father is perhaps as he opens the letters sent by the children. A card from one daughter who tells him that people tell her she is just like dad and how pleased she is and the others are read and he sees them with memory's eye as he saw them last. Now he feels that life is well worth living.

In the Greenwood cemetery of Spokane is a grave marked by a sarcophagus of granite on which is carved the name William S. Smart, the man for whom Father's day originated.

"He was my father," said Mrs. John Hastings of 315 E. Fourteenth street, Vancouver, a pioneer of Clark county. "My father was born in Arkansas. At the age of 17, he enlisted in the northern army and was with Sherman from Atlanta to the sea.

"I was born in Arkansas., At the age of five, my mother died. Of her I have but a faint recollection. There were six of us children and father took her place, taught us the things she would have taught, told us our bedtime stories and tucked us in bed at night. He later on married and we came to the Big Bend country in Washington. Six more children came to our home and then another mother passed on, leaving a family of twelve of us. I can see my father now, a picture of despair in our little home in the Big Bend hills. But he was a real dad and played a mother's part.

"Well I remember the school days. When the great snows came father walked ahead and beat a path for us to follow and when school was out for the day he would be waiting at the schoolhouse door to take us home. We helped him prepare the evening meal. We were happy - dad saw to that.

"It was my sister, Mrs. John Bruce Dodd of Spokane, who conceived the idea of Father's day. In 1910, she walked into the editorial room of one of Spokane's leading daily newspapers. Introducing herself and said, 'Mr. Editor, Mother has had a day named in her honor and I think it's about time father had a chance.'"

She then told the story as her sister told it to the writer.

"You have something there," said Mr. Editor, "we are with you."

"The next thing the chamber of commerce and all the civic clubs of which Mrs. Dodd has been made an honorary member came to her aid and so it was that Father's day originated.

There is in Spokane a garden planted in beautiful flowers known as Father's Garden. The Gold Star mothers have a plot in this garden, with flowers dedicated to the fathers of the boys who rest in foreign fields. There is also a beautiful drive where trees have been planted known as the road to remembrance, dedicated likewise to fathers, while Mt. Spokane is dedicated as a perpetual monument to the fathers of America. On the top of this mountain a great light shines at night, a beacon light for the mariners of the sky.

And so it was that the men who played the part of father and mother and although a southerner followed Sherman from Atlanta to the sea, was not forgotten.

Three 'Boys' Who Came to Clark County
Years Ago; Mrs. Sally Nichols Also Tells Story of Her 95-year Lifetime

Three boys were in town the other day. It is not often they meet, but when they get together they stroll around a bit and renew acquaintances.

They strolled into Latham & Coulter's store to see an old Yagger rifle that played its part in the Civil war. The northerners used it at first and then at Harper's Ferry the southerners captured guns and ammunition. The old rifle was one of those. The war ended and then the old gun found its way to the hands of one of those who was going to the land of the great Columbian.

The old rifle could tell a wonderful story and it just wouldn't talk, but the three boys would.

"My name is Ed Daniel," said one, "and these boys are my brothers, Wat and Fred. I am the second. I was born March 24, 1857. Yes, I remember the war and all about Lincoln. Now Wat, here, is the oldest. He was born January 17, 1854. Fred, our kid brother, made his appearance April 11, 1864. My home is on Route 5, Vancouver. My brothers live at Welches, Ore. We have a get-together occasionally and talk of boyhood days.

"Father came west in 1877. He returned soon to our old home in Illinois and in 1878, came west once more. I came with him. Wat and Ed came the next year. Nothing strange happened in our lives, just the work of building our homes and the work essential to make the changes that pioneers had to do, making of roads and clearing of land. Watt and Fred were with the O.W.R. & N. Construction company, also with Hale and Smith of Portland, starting in this work in 1882. That's about all except we are 'dyed in the wool' republicans and proud of it."

"It's about time you paid a visit to Fairacres," said Mr. Sally Nichols recently. "It will be my birthday soon."

And there say my hostess, under the shade of a tree she planted long ago.

"I was born in Pennsylvania in the oxen days 95 years ago on August 16, 1843," she said. "There were nine children in our family, four living, three at home, one in California. We are always together on my birthday. Forty-seven years ago we settled here. It was all timber, but we got busy and carved out a home.

"I used to be a dressmaker and many a dress I have made for the Vancouver ladies. I made a wedding dress for Mrs. Funk who recently passed on. Sure, I went to Vancouver to do my work. On foot most of the time - eleven miles it was. No airplanes soaring over your head to scare you to death and no automobiles to run over you. Happy days I have seen since. I came into this world when James K. Polk was the eleventh president of the United States.

"It was a lot of work to clear this land and plant our orchard, but work never hurt anyone. That's why I am here at 95. Sure, you have an invitation to my birthday party and that goes for my hundredth anniversary, too."

Barberton and Talks to Rebecca Curtin Whose Father Was Born in a Log House There; Family Left Ireland in Famine

The exact age of the white climbing rose bush is not known, but it is quite sure that it was planted over four score years ago. The great firs and cedars that it once knew are gone and the old log house where it climbed and covered with its white roses has fallen to decay. In spite of its age and of its old companions that have vanished, it still continues to bloom each year.

"My father, Michael Curtin, was born in the log house," said Rebecca Curtin of Glenwood, "and that was 78 years ago and the rose bush was blooming then. My grandparents came from Ireland during the time of a famine there. I do not know the date. They were in California in the days of '49. The patent was issued for this tract of land in 1869. Here is the patent signed by General Grant's secretary. J.T. Burnett and Charles Brown, auditor of Clark county, recorded it.

"Two of the old landmarks are gone. One was the old log school and the old church that was near the St. John cemetery where rest many of our pioneers. It was in this church that my father and mother were married January 8, 1884.

Here is the blue bonnet with the red flowers on it that mother wore. We are still on the old farm, my brother Joe, farming and dairying, while I am still teaching school. I have taught in Idaho several years. Vacation time is always spent at the old home, visiting my old friends, and renewing the thoughts of the good old times among which is the meeting of the Barberton grange.

"Barberton can now boast of a real up-to-date store and service station where Jack Roberts and wife wait on the many who find their way up and down the Jaggy road."

"Yes, I have spent my life behind the counter," said Mr. Roberts, "and for several years we looked for a location for a country store. We bought out the store here and carry what the farmers need. Best of all is the getting acquainted with the Barbertonians. They are a loyal people to their community and a lot of new people are settling here. Homes are being built, and improvements made. Yes, we are here to stay, business is improving, and things look good."

Hockinson Finds Cooperative Store Moved with Plans for a Modern New Building to Replace Older Structure

As we parked our car the other day at the Hockinson Cooperative company, we noticed that the old store was empty. A sign on the window said, "moved just across the street."

The old store building is a bit dilapidated, the paint faded, the shingles showing signs of age. The posts that held the porch leaning a bit, all brought about by wear and tear of time.

Across the street we visited Leonard Pietila, Hockinson's mayor and business manager of Hockinson Cooperative company.

"Yes," he said, "the old store must fall and a new building take its place." He admitted, however, that he felt a bit of pain to see the old building go, for he said, "You see it's an old landmark here, and there is a tie of affection that binds us to this old building that is nearing the half century mark. Time was when it was a much smaller building than now and Hockinson a sparsely settled community. In those days, ox teams could be seen on our streets on trading days. A hitching post stood near and farmers hitched their horses, strolled into the store, purchased coal oil, halters and provisions, and then if it was winter time, sat down by the old stove, smoked a while and visited.

"Five languages were spoken in the old store, English, Finnish, Norwegian, Swedish, and Danish. This community, one of the most prosperous in Clark county, with its excellent schools, dairy farms, and poultry farms, can point with pride to those who came from the far away Scandinavian peninsula.

Warren Mattson was busy at his home figuring with a contractor for the cooling system for the new store. When he was through he said: "The old must make way for the new, so we are building a new hollow tile building, 50 x 60, with a full basement. We organized this cooperative in 1920 and have seen times when all looked very discouraging, but we stuck and were glad we did. Many a problem had to be solved, credit had to be extended to our old customers to help them out in times of stress, and in so doing, we felt we were not only aiding them but our community. Sure I have a feeling of loss to see the old building fall. But we will forge the old when we get the new one."

Mr. Mattson was the co-op's first president in 1920 and still heads the organization. Other officers are Walter Johnson, vice-president; and John Pura, George Noack, Ed Cook, Leonard Pietila and George Mattson, members of the board of directors.

715 Grand Blvd, Vancouver, WA 98661

In bold is the main entry, followed by the page number of the map indexed. This is followed by the township and range, section number and other information. Several names were spelled in various ways, even on the same page, and appear to be the same person; however, since the indexer did not know which was correct, no correction was made to the name. Because the numbers were not listed with 0s in front of them, they are mixed in with the two and three digit numbers.
