ABOUT THE PROGRAM

NOTE: Our program in January is our annual SATURDAY daytime meeting and the program will be Paul Huntress, whose topic will be "Getting the Most Out of the Census." He is a member of the South King County Genealogical Society.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Dear Fellow EGS Members,

We need your help to suggest ideas that would further the purpose of our organization!

The EGS board recently approved the formation of a special project task force to identify onetime projects and / or ongoing initiatives to further the purpose of our organization.

Following is specific wording that was approved by the board.

"It is proposed that a task force be formed to brainstorm ideas regarding projects and / or ongoing initiatives that would further the overall purpose of the Eastside Genealogy Society (EGS), and recommend the best of those ideas to the EGS Board for consideration.

"This Special Task Force (STF) would consist of no less than five and no more than ten EGS volunteers, including a STF Leader, selected from the group of volunteers and approved by the board.

"It is proposed that the task force start no later than February 1, 2007, and complete their work by the end of April, 2007."

The board is looking for ideas that go above and beyond what the organization is doing currently, but consistent with our mission or purpose, which is stated in the following paragraphs.

The purpose of EGS as stated in the EGS By-

It is the purpose of the Society to encourage and promote the education and study of genealogy; to aid in genealogical research by establishing a library of books and materials; to conduct seminars, lectures, and workshops; to encourage the preservation of genealogical and historical records; and to publish, print, buy, sell or circulate literature relative to this purpose.

The purpose of EGS as stated in the EGS Newsletter ...

The EGS provides members a forum for learning and the exchange of information related to genealogy. The Society obtains and provides resources for use by members, encourages genealogical research and education, and provides community outreach through programs, classes, seminars, and library volunteers.

The EGS Board is encouraging the STF to consider projects addressing education, outreach, and research, but the STF would be free to consider other projects as well. The STF is also encouraged to engage the general membership in this project and to use whatever process makes sense to generate creative ideas. The deliverable would be a written report, to be presented to the EGS Board. The report would consist of the top three recommendations, including a list of pros and cons of each project. Depending upon board approval, the STF may be asked for additional information, including the estimated cost, proposed implementation plan, and an assessment of risks.

If funding is required to support any of these projects, the board is prepared to use part of the organization's cash reserve to cover the costs. Our cash reserve is currently invested in CDs and earning a nominal amount of interest, and the organization has more than enough to cover unforeseen expenses.

The next steps start with you! This is an opportunity for you to influence the future direction of this organization in significant way. Please give serious consideration to being part of this important project. I guarantee that you will not only enjoy the experience but will get more back from the organization than you put in. If you have been a volunteer in other organizations, you already know this. I look forward to hearing from you!

ONLINE NEWSLETTER NOTICE

The sign-ups for the online Bulletin have been steady and regular. We now have 99 members receiving the Bulletin by e-mail.

The EGS Board members will be calling the membership in January that are not currently receiving the Bulletin electronically, for a decision about having the Bulletin newspaper delivered monthly by mail or electronically delivered by e-mail and computer.

We will call the membership during January and ask for you to decide which way you are willing to receive it from now on. If you choose to receive it by computer, we will drop you from the post office mailing list and thereby save EGS the costs of printing and postage and avoid any possible change in the dues to cover these costs. [Submitted by EGS Editor, Pat Clarke]

MONTHLY MEETING SUMMARIES

Do you miss the monthly meeting summaries that have been a regular feature of this newsletter for so many years? So do I! And so do a large number of our members who cannot attend the monthly meetings on a regular basis.

The reason they no longer appear is that we no longer have a volunteer to write them.

You can help, of course, by volunteering to write the reports for meetings you attend. If we get someone to step up every month, we're covered. You don't have to commit to do it every month, although that would be best. If you can help, please let the person running the monthly meeting (usually me) know that you will do it for that meeting. Our Program Chairperson, Judy Meredith, will work with you to get whatever materials we can from the speaker to help you with your report. You will then be expected to email your report to our Newsletter Editor, Pat Clarke (pbclarke@comcast.net) by the 15th of the month. I think you will agree with me that our monthly programs are outstanding. Let's restart the tradition of reporting this important information in our monthly newsletter. Thanks in advance for your help.

[Submitted by EGS President, Norb Ziegler]

NEWSLETTER DISTRIBUTION VOLUNTEERS

I am pleased to report that Jack and Jean Newman have volunteered to do the newsletter distribution on a monthly basis.

Pete Clarke also volunteered to deliver the newsletters to the Issaquah Post Office, when weather or other circumstances prevent the Newmans from doing this task.

Suzy Page and Peggy Pomeroy also volunteered to help, and we will keep them on our backup list to help when needed.

Thank you all very much! [Submitted by EGS President, Norb Ziegler]

IRISH GENEALOGY

Genealogy podcasts seem to be popping up everywhere and for good reasons. These audio "broadcasts" are great for conveying certain types of information. Now Michael C. O'Laughlin, a world-famous Irish genealogist and author, has created what is believed to be the first Irish genealogy podcast. You can now listen to Michael describe "how to do it right."

The first eight weekly Irish genealogy podcasts are now available free of charge on iTunes under the byline of the "Irish Family Cafe." You can learn more about these podcasts at www.irishroots.com/podcast/rss.xml.

The continuing Irish genealogy podcasts are sponsored by the Irish Genealogical Foundation, found along with other research aids at www.irishroots.com.

- Virginia Marriage Records, from the Virginia Magazine of History and Biography, the William and Mary College Quarterly, and Tyler's Quarterly, indexed by Elizabeth Petty Bentley. Genealogical Publishing Co. originally published this book in 1982, reprinted it in 2006, 794 pp. This book contains almost every list of marriages published in the three esteemed periodicals listed above. The combined lists--fully indexed--comprise some 20,000 marriage records, most of which derive from bonds, ministers' returns, licenses, registers, ministerial records, and newspapers. In the aggregate they form the largest collection of Virginia marriage records ever published. (Note abstracted from publisher's catalogue.) R929.3755 VIR
- Tracing Your Irish Ancestors: the complete Guide, by John Grenham, Genealogical Pub. Company 2006, 526 pp. With its step-by-step instructions in the location and use of genealogical records, its discussion of civil records of birth, marriage, and death, along with land records and wills, and its list of Roman Catholic parish records and county source lists, this book is easily the most useful book in Irish genealogy. DNA TEST DISCOVERS DISTANT RELATIVES

My DNA adventure tale started in July 2005 when my husband and I visited Jakub, the ancestral village of my grandmother Anna and her mother Maria Katarina Murgašova. I had discovered in Ellis Island records that my maternal grandmother along with her mother and siblings had emigrated to the US from Jakub. (Jakub, now a suburb of Banská Bystrica, Slovakia, lies about ninety miles north of Budapest.)

My purpose in visiting the area was merely to see the village and the church in which my grandmother had been christened. When I explained, through gestures and a rudimentary family tree, to a man working in the churchyard that my grandmother had been born in Jakub, he became quite animated, led me to the house next door and introduced me to František Murgaš. I don't speak Slovak, František doesn't speak English, and both of us were trying hard to remember some "survival" German! When František understood, after seeing the family-tree sketch, that I was a Murgaš descendant, he told us to wait just a moment, went into the house and soon returned with a bottle of slivovitz and some glasses. Although it was only about 10 am, we toasted the Murgašes with fiery plum brandy, the Slovak national drink.

When František learned that we were traveling to Piešťany in western Slovakia, he gave us the name and address of his sister Elena who lives there and urged us to contact her. Elena was surprised at our visit but was very cordial. Again, no Slovak language skills on my part and no English on hers. But we stumbled along in German as best we could. Elena wrote out all of the history of her family that she knew, but told us that she didn't think we were related, since her family lived in house Number Eight and "my Murgašes" lived in Number Two.

So, I pondered, how do I find out if we really are related? I cranked through miles of microfilmed Slovak church records at the Family History Center and found lots of Murgašes, but no common ancestor. Then I remembered an EGS program from a couple of years ago about using DNA tests for genealogy.

Fast forward to September 2006. Determined to discover whether we were related, I traveled again to Jakub, this time armed with two DNA test kits: a y-chromosome kit for František to test for a common male ancestor and a mitochondrial DNA (mtDNA) kit for Elena. I spent quite a bit of time on the flight to Europe translating the test kit instructions into German, hoping that my attempts to explain the purpose of the tests would be sufficient to gain their cooperation—and get them to scrape their cheeks for the tests.

I had written previously to them to tell them that I would be traveling in the area and hoped that I might visit them again. Imagine my delight to find both of them together in Jakub—with their two granddaughters, both of whom spoke excellent English. Not only that, but Elena's granddaughter is in her final year of medical school, and so was able to explain the DNA test purpose and process to them. Both Elena and František eagerly agreed to the tests. The only "obstacle" was waiting until after the test for the obligatory slivovitz! As we departed, František patted my arm and said, "Even if we're not family, we're still family!"

After returning home, I sent the DNA tests to the lab, Family Tree DNA in Houston, Texas and waited to see if the results would confirm my hopes. Meanwhile I spent many hours cranking through more microfilms at the Family History Center, looking for those elusive connections. My research was complicated by the number of families in this small village with the same surname, and the fact that so many of the given names were the same. Most of the men were named Johannes or Georgius or Andreas or Matthias, and the women were mostly Susanna or Maria or Anna. And still several different families.... I feared that I might have to research the genealogy of the whole village!

Finally the results arrived by email. YES! There is a common male ancestor! We are family! The y-chromosome test matched on all 25 markers with the DNA sample from my male cousin, Bill Murgas! Now all I have to do is find that great great great....grandfather. I'm back to the late 1700s and haven't found him yet. But I will!

By the way, Elena's mtDNA doesn't match with mine. But that was to be expected, since mtDNA is passed from mother to child and, of course, Elena and I have different maternal lines.

So my great DNA adventure ended in the discovery of family I never knew I had. When I think of all the great coincidences during this process, I'm convinced that we were meant to find each other. Last year, finding František moments after arriving in Jakub and then contacting Elena in a town that we just happened to be visiting. And this year, finding both of them—together with their English-speaking granddaughters—and having both not only consent to the test but be eager to take it, was just too serendipitous! I'm still warmed by the memories of their hospitality and willingness to do the tests. And I keep wondering how I would have reacted if some stranger had knocked on my door, saying that she thinks we might be related and, oh by the way, would I give her a DNA sample!

EGS SCANDINAVIAN INTEREST GROUP

Meeting Summary, Tuesday, December 12, 2006

The December meeting of the Scandinavian Interest Group was a potluck Julfest, with lots of good conversation. Along with all the goodies, we sang seasonal songs in three languages accompanied by our guest Norman Westerberg and his "squeezebox" accordion. Mr. Westerberg was born in Detroit in 1929, grew up in Finland, and has lived in the Seattle area since 1980. He wears many hats -- he's a Charter Member of the Advisory Board of the U.W. Scandinavian Studies Dept., he's a founding Director of the Swedish Finn Historical Society, he's served as Honorary Consul of Finland, is Vice Speaker of the Finnish Expatriate Parliament, and is a Knight Commander of the Finnish Order of the Lion! We were delighted to have him join us.

The Scandinavian Interest Group will continue to meet at the Puget Sound Regional Archives Building on the campus of Bellevue Community College, on the second Tuesday of each month, in 2007. All are welcome. [Submitted by EGS member, Gene Fagerberg]

EGS SCANDINAVIAN INTEREST GROUP

Meeting Summary, Tuesday, November 14, 2006

1. Field Trip to Seattle Public Library
Seven intrepid Scandies braved threatening weather to travel to the Seattle Public Library, where lead genealogy librarian Darlene Hamilton gave us a tour of the genealogy section. Take the elevator to Level 9 and you'll be in the middle of
it. The librarian at the Reference Desk on Level 9 can point out any specific materials you'd like to see. Ask for a sheet showing the Dewey Classification Scheme Used in the Genealogy Section and the Classification Numbers for States in the Genealogy Section.

The genealogy collection was begun in 1926 with a donation from the Seattle Genealogical Society, and has grown to today's 40,000 volumes

FREE GENEALOGICAL RESEARCH HELP:

Genealogical research help is available at the Bellevue Regional Library at NE 12th St. and 110th Ave. NE in Bellevue. Eastside Genealogical Society volunteers are waiting to help you with problems and questions. They are available in room 6 on the second floor of the library, to the left of the reference desk. Hours are Tuesdays from 7-9 PM and Wednesdays from 1-3 PM.

plus periodicals, pamphlets, and microfilm. It is part of the History, Travel and Maps Department. The collection includes county histories; courthouse, cemetery, church, census, and military records; family histories; name books, both personal and geographic; and books on heraldry. The focus areas of the U.S. collection are New England, Mid-Atlantic, Old South, Upper Midwest and Pacific Northwest. There are also limited sources for areas outside the U.S.

The key to the collection is the library's online catalog, but be aware that the catalog excludes pamphlet-type materials in the Vertical Files. A card catalog on Level 9 provides additional indexing. The library's Internet location is www.spl.org. It will be a time-saver to do your catalog searching at home before visiting the library.

The map collection includes the USGS Topographic maps for the western half of the U.S. (see TOPO-ZONE.COM for the eastern half), and the Army Map Service topographic maps for much of the rest of the world.

Many of the maps are of a scale large enough to show individual buildings. A good strategy is to find your place name in a gazetteer (for example, Call No. R912 Un32G, Official Standard Names Approved by the United States Board on Geographic Names), which will yield the latitude/ longitude of the place, then find those coordinates on a map. If you find several places of the same name, locating them on a map may give clues as to which is "your" place. Color copies can be made in NEW BOOKS ON THE EGS SUPPLY TABLE the Art Department, or if black and white suits you there's an 11" x 17" copier on Level 9.

The library also offers online databases and CD's, some of which require you to have a library card for access. You'll find they are similar to those in the King County libraries.

2. Discussion meeting at Bellevue Community College.

Arlene Nelson kindly volunteered to be discussion leader for a "regular meeting" at BCC for those who could not make it to the field trip. Her summary follows.

Seven members of our Scandinavian Genealogy group sat in comfort at Bellevue Community College this month. Our meeting was about Inter> net web sites that might be useful to our group. Also we discussed helpful research advice from the experts, taken from an article that appeared in the Internet Genealogy magazine April/May 2006 issue. No Scandinavian meeting would be complete without us talking about food and our annual Christmas party to be held next month. One web site we would like to share with you is www.scandcook.com -- they have a newsletter for Scandinavian food! We are always looking for new members to join this fun sharing group of Scandinavians.

THINKING OF YOU

A Get Well card was sent to Jan Henderson. Also, Barbara Guyll and family and relatives recently celebrated the 99th birthday of her father in Medford, Oregon. Her father's twin brother just recently passed away.

[Submitted by EGS Sunshine Chair, Ielene Edmonson]

We have received a few new books that will be available on the Supply Table at the January meeting. Supply is limited, with only one or two copies of each book available.

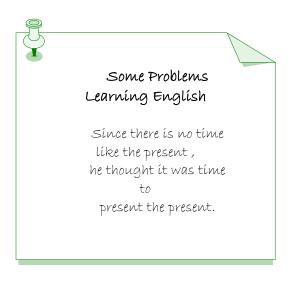

- Digitizing Your Family History by Rhonda R. McClure. Easy methods for preserving your heirloom documents, photos, home movies and more in a digital format.
- Uncovering Your Ancestry through Family Photographs by Maureen A. Taylor. Learn how to discover clues to your ancestor's lives through photographs.
- Dating Old Photographs 1840-1929, by Family Chronicle. Features over 650 reproductions of old photographs by time period. By comparing your old photographs, you will be able to match clothing and hair fashions to help you pinpoint the date.
- More Dating Old Photographs 1840-1929 by Family Chronicle. A new collection of over 120 pages of old photographs, with sections dedicated to unusual and hand-colored photographs as well as a 12-page introduction.
- Walking With Your Ancestors A Genealogists Guide to Using Maps and Geography by Melinda Kashuba. A guide to using maps, atlases and gazetteers and what they can tell you about the lives of your ancestors.
- Swedish Genealogical Dictionary by Phyllis J. Pladsen. This book lists over 5,500 words found in Swedish documents of importance to genealogy research. A section of handwriting samples and a reference section is also included.
- Your Guide to the Family History Library by Paula Stuart Warren and Jame W. Warren. Information on how to access the world's largest genealogy resource in Salt Lake City, in Family History Centers, and at home via the Internet.
- The Genealogist's Question and Answer Book by Marcia Yannizze Melnyk. Solutions and advice for maximizing your research results in a question-answer - type format that is grouped by resources you will use.

- Your Guide to the Federal Census by Kathleen W. Hinckley. Information on how to find the census records you want, details about each census record and many guidelines.

 VOLUNTEER OPPORTUNITIES ***

Do you have time on your hands? Could you donate a few hours a week [or a month] to Eastside Genealogy Society to help keep our operation running smoothly? EGS is only as strong as our volunteers.

Here are a few recent openings due to illness, moving, grandchildren needing care, or personal life changes.

Nominating Committee - Members are needed to work on the Nominating Committee each spring to locate new officers for EGS. Contact Maxine Klink at 425-836-0930 or (marymaxklink@comcast.net).

Education Committee - New Education Chair is needed due to retirement of Dana Siverling for health reasons. Contact Norb Ziegler at 425-557-2108 or (zieglerwa@sprintmail.com) if you are interested.

Library Committee - A volunteer needed as an assistant to the EGS Library Chair, Winnie Sihon. Contact Winnie Sihon at 425-746-3573 or (wsihon@comcast.net).

Research Assistants — We need an additional volunteer to help researchers at our afternoon or evening help sessions at the library, due to a recent vacancy. Contact Winnie Sihon at wsihon@comcast.net or 425-746-3573.

Publicity Chair - A volunteer is needed for the recently vacated Publicity Chair. Out going chair person will stay and train. Call Norb Ziegler at 425-557-2108 or zieglerwa@sprintmail.com

Local Meetings and Events
