

Well known Heberle

Mark Allen Heberle

In 2011, Mark Allen Heberle was Professor in the Department of English at the University of Hawaii. He was born and raised in Erie PA and received his BA in English from the University of Pennsylvania and PhD from Harvard. At University of Hawaii he has taught undergraduate courses on Milton and Shakespeare, undergraduate courses on war literature and the Vietnam War, in which he served. For several years he was managing editor for Biography, a university journal of life writing. He has taught undergraduates in London during semesters abroad, and was a visiting lecturer at British College in Cheltenham, Gloucestershire. He has done publications on Shakespeare and Spenser and articles and book chapters on writers such as Graham Greene, Michael Herr, Takeshi Kaiko, and J.R.R. Tolkien. He has also published literary biography and Vietnam war literature. He co-edited a book on how children's language ("Infant tongues: The voice of child in literature" 1994). An essay on "Vietnam Fictions" is to appear in the Edinburgh Companion to Twentieth-century British and American War Literature, scheduled for publication in 2012. Books published include:

Authors	Year published	Title	Cover
Mark Allen Heberle et al	1994	Infant Tongues: The Voice of the Child in Literature
Mark Allen Heberle	2001	A Trauma Artist: Tim O'Brien and the Fiction of Vietnam
Mark Allen Heberle, Editor	2009	Thirty Years After: New Essays on Vietnam War Literature, Film, and Art

Born/Geboren/Né/Nascido Erie, Pennsylvania, USA.

Parents/Eltern/Parents/Pais: Lawrence J and Ruth E Heberle, Albersweiler branch of Heberle.

Married/Verheirat/Epousé/Casado: Kyoko Yamamura.

Children/Kinder/Enfants/Crianças: Jacob Kira Heberle.