MORGAN HORSE

This beautiful and high bred horse was purchased by me when a colt of Calvin Blodgett of Vermont, at a considerable expense. He is now four years old and will make the Spring Season at my plantation three miles below Cambridge and at Greenwood. He is a beautiful mahogany bay, fifteen and a half hands high, and was sired by the old Gifford Morgan and his dam a full blooded Morgan mare, and in his general form he possesses to a remarkable degree the most important requisite in a stallion, compactness. In his temper and spirit he exhibits the intelligence and docility which characterizes most of the Morgan horses. For further particulars, see James CRESSWELL. Jan. 16, 1853

STOP THE ROGUE

Taken from my residence on Sunday night the 6th of March, a detached, lever watch, french gold, made by Duchene Peyrot and numbered No. 68277, Geneva. The watch is supposed to have been taken by a man who stopped at night with me at the time it is supposed to have been taken. The said individual called himself Mr. Morris while at my house, but I have since ascertained that his real name is Bud LAY.

Said LAY has recently been a citizen of Cobb county, Georgia but I believe that he is now on his way to York District, where he originally emigrated from. He is about five feet ten inches high, dark straight hair, dark skin. At the time he was with me, he wore a moustache without any other beard and had on a plush cap, dark cussimere coat, gray pants and no vest and wore a gold watch and chain, with three gold rings on his fingers. He professed to be a tobacconist. He is a much sharper man than he would pass for and persons encountering him had best be on their guard. A liberal reward will be paid for the delivery of the watch and the detection of the thief, or for sufficient information to secure a conviction. B.D. KAY, Lowndesville, S.C., April 7, 1853

EXECUTOR'S NOTICE

He had on when he left a common suit, the coat rather upon the sack order. He is quite intelligent. The other is EDMUND, who has no beard. In complexion and height is similar to William, though not quite so heavy. Rather more inteligent and when spoken to, answers quickly. Edmund is a pretty good fiddler. Any person who will deliver them to Nathaniel JEFFRIES on Col. Cable's plantation near Island Ford, Little River, 11 miles west of Abbeville court house, or confine them in any jail within this or any other state, shall be suitably rewarded.
